Cllr Burge gave a report on Social Care, details below:

A Symposium on Social Care Herefordshire 25 January 2019

“Hosted by The High Sheriff of Herefordshire Nat Hone DL

Key aims and themes of the symposium

To provide up to date information about the pressures and challenges facing those who in Modern British Society are responsible for the provision of help to vulnerable people of all ages i.e. the state, commercial and charitable organizations.

To acknowledge membership of the caring profession to be a very high calling and to which society does not give proper value for what they do on our behalf. This must change.

There is a need to match our expectations for outcomes to the amount we are prepared to pay.

Speakers

The Hon. Mr Justice Keehan (High Court Judge) “ The legal aspects of Social Care”

Mr Justice Keehan spoke of the increasing in work load of the courts (in relation to children at risk of significant harm) which has risen by 25%. This increase is presenting challenges for judges and the judicial system. In response to the increasing demand and in order to alleviate pressure on judges and the court system a group has been set up to review and recommend how the legal and care systems might work more effectively together e.g. develop improved pre-proceedings work and thus reduce the numbers coming to public law proceedings. The group are currently considering a have a number of areas for improved practice development.

Richard Humphries King's fund "Social Care as a profession"

Mr Humphries provided a background to the development of Social services leading up to the current situation of increasing pressures arising from a number of sources. People are living longer, have increasingly complex needs, and there is a high turnover of staff within the care sector. There is no additional money to meet these challenges and so we will need to be more creative and imaginative in ways in which we spend the cash we have. Mr Humphries gave examples of initiatives which are providing a positive outcome including Kington Local services. He posed the question "Can we do something different in Hereford to let things grow?"

Dr Ian Tate "Social Care's interface with Health.

Dr Tate is currently chair and clinical lead of the NHS Herefordshire Clinical Commissioning Group and Vice-chair of the Herefordshire Council's Health and Wellbeing board

Dr Tate has a commitment to the holistic care of individual patients in his role as GP and across Herefordshire. He provided an interesting focus for discussion about partnership and collaboration across the full range of care/support needs from personal self-care (a need/responsibility for all) to the support needs of people with more complex health and care issues and how these might be met through effective collaboration by a range of personal service providers.

Final Discussion/Panel

A focus on how the information shared and additional examples of good practice might be taken forward in Herefordshire."
